diet that a weak and ill-digested stomach may be brought strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle poisons are floating around us ready to attack

Miscellaneous Items.
A WOMAN'S LOVE COMPARED WITH MAN'S.—
There is nothing in the world so intensely selfish as a woman's deep affection; and the stronger and more single-hearted it is, the greater becomes its selfishness. A man's passion is generous when compared with a woman's love. A man's passion, at its worst, lasts but a short time; and while it lasts it is generous and limited; and what is more than this, a good man will restrain it. But the truer and more sensitive a woman is, the more thoroughly will she let her love master her; the less effort will she make to retain the least control of it. And what a master! Its jealousy is cruel as the grave, and its demands know no limits but the imagination of her that makes them. A woman who loves thus is not content with the constant bodily constancy; she is not content even with the constancy of an undivided tenderness. These she takes for granted; they are not the things she craves for. What she craves for is the constancy of her whole thought and intellect. You are to have nothing in your mind that you do not confide to her; you are to be interested with which she cannot be associated. If you want any mental help, it is she alone who must help you; and she had sooner you were helped by her than well by another person. She will be as jealous of your friendships as she is of your affections, and as jealous of your thoughts and tastes as she is of your friendships. She cannot patiently conceive of you as in relation to anything excepting herself. She desires to absorb your whole life into hers; and the larger part of it, which she naturally cannot absorb, she desires to see perish. Her pleading, earnest eyes will be forever saying to you, "Entreat me not to leave thee. Where thou goest I will go; and where thou goest, my love, whither I cannot follow thee."

LADIES "GOING TO THE DOGS."—I was in a hotel recently where almost every other woman had her pug or terrier or skye. In more than one instance I know of a nurse to be especially engaged to do nothing but look after the dog, and a certain young New York physician will probably owe his rise in life to his devoted care of an elderly lady's cub, who had dog colic, or some such disorder. Positively I know a most intelligent and estimable lady who not only has a nurse to take care of her pug, but who, with her own white hands, on which glitter jewels worth many thousands of dollars, regularly washes her pet, combs his hair and will you believe it?—cleans his teeth with an ivory-handled tooth-brush every morning of his life. [Let us hope that Fashion will give the babies a chance in public by-and-by.]

WHY is a married man a bird? When he comes home at 2 a.m. For the benefit of bachelors (it is not necessary for the married folks), we explain that when a man comes home at the hour named his wife makes him quail.

About Love.
Mr. Paganofsky has noticed That the girl who is the most afraid of the girl is the first to be courted into matrimony.
That the little boys prefer boys to girls.
That they soon change, never to go back to their early preference.
That little girls love the girls best.
That they don't get over their preference as soon as the boys do—some of them never.
That the women love the men, as they do po-dies, because they love everything they have to take care of.
That men love women because they can't help it.
That the wife loves her husband so well that she has no thought for other men.
That the husband so loves his wife that he loves all other women for her sake.
That the married man is apt to think himself all-killing among the fair sex simply because he has found one woman fool enough to marry him.
That homely husbands are the best. They never forget the compliment paid them by their wives in accepting them.
That homely wives are the truest. They know how to make the most of what they have.
That the man who marries late in life does well.
That the woman who marries does well.
That the woman who does not marry does better nine times out of ten than she who does.
That this is the special instance, when you should open your eyes, and look before you leap.
